

SERVICING DALBY AND THE SURROUNDING AREA

Saving you Money

Did you know that having an annual pest inspection has several benefits including saving you money? A termite inspection is particularly important because these silent pests can be at work in our homes and businesses without us being aware. However a qualified pest controller, with the latest thermal imaging technology, can detect their presence in the early stages and potentially save you thousands of dollars.

Equally important is undertaking the preventative measure of establishing a termite barrier around your home or business. According to Brad, this offers customers peace of mind because they know their home is protected. However an annual inspection is essential to ensure that the barrier remains effective.

What About Other Pests?

Most of us don't want cockroaches, spiders, ants or silverfish sharing our homes, and we are particularly averse to finding cockroaches in commercial accommodation and food services. It only takes one cockroach to give a business a bad review. Total Pest Control uses products which are insect specific thus allowing a targeted approach to treatment.

German cockroaches are extremely adept scavengers able to feed on almost any available food source, including toothpaste, soap and the smallest of crumbs missed during cleaning. The good news is that the latest available treatment is so effective that draws itself to cockroaches.

IF, LIKE MOST OF US, YOU CONSIDER YOUR HOME TO BE YOUR CASTLE, THEN YOU WILL WANT TO PROTECT IT.

With more than 13 years experience locally in the industry, Brad Berderow is one of Dalby's most experienced pest controllers and he knows that people like to support local business. It was this and his desire to deliver the highest level of customer service that inspired him to set up Total Pest Services, a family-run business, in partnership with his wife, Tanya.

When Should You Arrange an Inspection?

Annual inspections are advisable and some commercial premises, particularly food services, need to be inspected more regularly. Request an inspection if you suspect any pest activity or if you plan to buy a home. If you are in any doubt, call Total Pest Services because some pests can only be detected by a professional. Many are especially invasive and can establish themselves quite quickly.

Expect the Highest Level of Customer Service

Call today to arrange an obligation free quote from Total Pest Services for your home or business. Brad Berderow has a reputation for thoroughness and accuracy in the detection of pests and he will only sell you what you need. His work is guaranteed by warranty. You may find cheaper prices when you shop around for quotes, but is a warranty included? For your convenience Brad operates an on-board office and credit card facility. He will write your report and provide an electronic or printed copy on the spot. In addition, if your invoice is paid on the day, a discount is offered off the quoted price.
